

Ethan McChesney (he/him)

Policy Director, NPHI

Serving as Policy Director for the National Partnership for Healthcare and Hospice Innovation (NPHI), Ethan is responsible for leading a wide range of initiatives including, but not limited to, monitoring policy and regulatory developments, interfacing with industry and government officials, preparing collateral materials, assisting with event planning, and providing strategic guidance to advance the priorities of the Partnership and its members. Ethan also plays a critical role in supporting the work of the NPHI Innovation Lab, where he provides policy and project management oversight.

Prior to joining NPHI and Healthsperien, Ethan held multiple public policy-focused roles, namely, with the National Coalition on Health Care, where he was involved in communications, message development, and policy analysis efforts. He also spent time with Wynne Health Group, one of the preeminent healthcare policy consulting firms in DC, where he assisted in servicing their diverse set of clients. Additionally, Ethan has prior experience in the congressional office of the senior Senator from Colorado, Michael Bennet.

Ethan recently received recognition from the Aging Media Network which named him as one of Hospice News' Future Leaders, class of 2023. He is a graduate of the University of Kansas where he earned a bachelor's degree in Political Science with minors in Sociology and Psychology.
