

Jonathan Chew

Administrative Assistant, NPHI

Jonathan serves as NPHI's Administrative Assistant. He provides communications and logistical support to staff and assists the Executive team with administrative tasks.

Prior to joining NPHI, Jonathan worked as a foreign policy research consultant at Magic Canyon Institute and Galisteo Consulting Group, where he used computational linguistic methods to analyze social media data. In 2023, Jonathan served as co-author on a book about digital disinformation in Russia and Eastern Europe, with a focus on narratives regarding Russia's invasion of Ukraine and its 2014 annexation of Crimea.

Jonathan has an educational background in policy and data science, as well as former experience in the field of epidemiology. He is excited to work towards improving U.S. health outcomes through statistical research and administrative support.

A native of the United Kingdom, Jonathan holds a Master of Science in Politics and Data Science from University College, Dublin. He obtained his Bachelor of Business Administration in Business Fellows, Mathematics, and Russian from Baylor University.
